

Seminar in Nutrition
709:481

Concepts in Global Nutrition Research

What is undernutrition? What are the underlying conditions that allow undernutrition to occur? Do politics and economic play a role in human nutrition? This seminar course will explore the fundamentals of undernutrition, factors that cause poor growth, problems that result from poor growth, as well as the structural and political framework in which undernutrition persists. Using current research findings, we will explore various aspects of undernutrition and place them within the context of social and economic situations that allow policies to be developed to prevent poor growth in children in both developed and developing countries.

Tuesdays, 12:35 to 1:55, IFNH 205