

The Department of Nutritional Sciences Spring 2025 Seminar Series

"Coping With Food Insecurity in Households Living Above Versus Below the Federal Poverty Level in a High Cost-of-Living Region"

Megan P. Mueller, MPH PhD

Assistant Professor
Food Science and Human Nutrition
Colorado State University

Host: Mackenzie Ferrante, PhD
Professor of Nutritional Sciences, Rutgers

Wednesday, March 5, 2025 @ 2:15 PM

Zoom option: <https://go.rutgers.edu/Mueller-Seminar>

Dr. Mueller's presentation will cover the issue of food insecurity and nutrition insecurity across the income spectrum with considerations for high cost of living areas; detail our community-engaged participatory research project near Aspen, CO (a high cost of living, mountain resort region); and present our findings around the differences in how families cope with food insecurity when they have incomes above versus below the federal poverty level for federal food assistance.