COURSE NAME, NUMBER, & MEETING TIMES
Research in Nutrition (3 credit)
11:709:493/494
Day/Time: vary depending on research project
Expectations for 3 credit hours = ~10 hours/week

COURSE DESCRIPTION:
Perform an independent research project in Nutritional Sciences with a sponsored faculty member (research advisor).

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:
At the end of this experience, students will be able to:
1. Evaluate emerging scientific research in nutritional sciences.
2. Apply the scientific method in answering a research question.
3. Write a scientific research paper and demonstrate how to use appropriate research methods, ethical procedures and data analysis procedures.

2022 Core Knowledge for the RDN (KRDN) – Standards for the Didactic Programs in Dietetics:
Rutgers University Department of Nutritional Sciences undergraduate Didactic Program in Dietetics is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND) of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics (AND). The following ACEND Core Knowledge aptitudes are included within the curriculum of this course:

KRDN 1.1: Demonstrate how to locate, interpret, evaluate and use professional literature to make ethical, evidence-based practice decisions (i.e., Independent Research Project).

KRDN 1.3: Apply critical thinking skills (i.e., Independent Research Project).

KRDN 2.1 – Demonstrate effective and professional oral and written communication and documentation (i.e., Independent Research Project)

KRDN 4.7: Evaluate data to be used in decision-making for continuous quality improvement (i.e., Independent Research Project).

RESPONSIBILITIES & ASSESSMENT:
A final grade for this course will be determined by your sponsored faculty member (research advisor). To ensure a successful experience, students should meet with their research advisor during the first week of the semester in developing a research learning contract. As part of the research learning contract, students need to create at least three specific learning goals. When thinking about these goals, students should think about research tasks or skills that they would like to gain. Students should avoid making a goal that states “I want to learn more about…” as such goals tend to lead to very passive processes.

After learning goals have been determined, each goal needs to have a specific plan to achieve it. Students need to think about what the first, second, third and final steps will be to meeting their learning goals and discuss this with their research advisor in implementing the plan. Finally, students need to measure their progress over the course of the research experience to assess their progress towards meeting their learning goals.

The table below may help students and research advisors visualize the components of a well-planned learning contract.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

The university's policy on Academic Integrity is available at http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/academic-integrity-policy. The principles of academic integrity require that a student:

- properly acknowledge and cite all use of the ideas, results, or words of others.
- properly acknowledge all contributors to a given piece of work.
- make sure that all work submitted as his or her own in a course or other academic activity is produced without the aid of impermissible materials or impermissible collaboration.
- obtain all data or results by ethical means and report them accurately without suppressing any results inconsistent with his or her interpretation or conclusions.
- treat all other students in an ethical manner, respecting their integrity and right to pursue their educational goals without interference. This requires that a student neither facilitate academic dishonesty by others nor obstruct their academic progress.
- uphold the canons of the ethical or professional code of the profession for which he or she is preparing.

Adherence to these principles is necessary in order to ensure that

- everyone is given proper credit for his or her ideas, words, results, and other scholarly accomplishments.
- all student work is fairly evaluated and no student has an inappropriate advantage over others.
- the academic and ethical development of all students is fostered.
- the reputation of the University for integrity in its teaching, research, and scholarship is maintained and enhanced.

Failure to uphold these principles of academic integrity threatens both the reputation of the University and the value of the degrees awarded to its students. Every member of the University community therefore bears a responsibility for ensuring that the highest standards of academic integrity are upheld.
